WMGMA 2018 Annual Conference Call for Presentations

We invite you to submit an abstract to share your expertise and knowledge through a conference presentation. The WMGMA 2018 Annual Conference will take place on March 14-16, 2018 at the Wilderness Resort in Wisconsin Dells, WI. Final presentation selections will be based on the quality and clarity of the abstract, as well as relevance to the WMGMA membership and correlation of the described content to the overall conference theme: Innovate, Integrate, Motivate. All submissions will be considered. Preference will be given to the following topics: employee retention, employee satisfaction, partner presentation between clinical leader and physician, motivation, operations management, financial management, human resources management, risk and compliance management, organizational governance and patient-centered care.

Abstracts must be submitted electronically by October 16, 2017.

Addressing employee burnout is not just an individual issue

Burnout is an issue that many in the healthcare industry are confronting. And according to a recent MGMA Stat poll, 63% of respondents do not have a staff engagement program in their organization.

It is a stress response, so one of the first signs is exhaustion: "You've run out of creativity, you have nothing left to give," explains Christina Maslach, PhD, professor of psychology emerita, University of California, Berkeley.
